A REMARKABLE SCENE.

Bradlaugh Declines to Obey the Order of the House of Commons and is Put Out by Force.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

LONDON, June 22.—The house of commons to-day was crowded. Bradlaugh presented himself at the table of the speaker, who informed him that in consequence of the resolution of yesterday he may retire. Bradlaugh wished to address the speaker. The opposition cried "withdraw," and the speaker informed Bradlaugh he must withdraw. Labouchere moved that Bradlaugh be heard. Agreed to. Bradlaugh eloquently combatted the resolution against him. He said that it was unprecedented to condemn any one unheard. He argued against being accused of atheism. He would not forego his opinions or claim to a seat. The house might expel him, but until he had taken his seat it has no jurisdiction. The house cannot override the law which permits him to take the oath. If appeal should be necessary, as he hopes it will not be, it must be made. He asked the house to give him the justice which judges would give him if appealed to, and Bradlaugh was loudly cheered. The speaker asked whether Bradlaugh should be called to hear the pleasure of the house. Sir Stafford Northcote and Premier Gladstone both thought no new case had arisen. The latter thought that last night's resolution was illegal, but submitted to it as the decision of the house. Labouchere asked leave to move that Bradlaugh be allowed to take the oath; ruled out of order. Labouchere then moved to rescind last night's resolution, but after some discussion at the request of Gladstone he withdrew the motion. Bradlaugh having been called in advance to the table, was informed by the speaker of the decision of the house and was requested to withdraw. Bradlaugh twice respectfully refused to withdraw. Sir Stafford Northcote moved that the speaker be authorized to enforce his withdrawal. The house then divided on this motion, Bradlaugh meantime standing at the table, and the motion was adopted by a vote of 328 to 38. Bradlaugh refused positively to obey. He was there upon removed beyond the bar. He returned twice, declaring that the house had no right to exclude him; it can only imprison him. Northcote moved that Bradlaugh, having refused to obey the chair, be given into the custody of the sergeant at arms. Gladstone, seeing no other means of giving effect to last night's resolution, seconded the motion. A motion to adjourn was rejected 242 to 5, and Northcote's motion adopted, 274 to 9.

CINCINNATI CONVENTION.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE SECOND DAY

Eighteen Candidates Voted for—Hancock the Leader, Followed Closely by Bayard, Payne, Field and Others.

BUT ONE BALLOT TAKEN.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

Following is the full report of the first part of the day's proceedings, cut short by bad transmission this morning:

CINCINNATI, June [illegible].—Ex-Senator Barnum of Connecticut, chairman of the national committee, called the convention to order at 12:45 and presented Rev. Wendt of the Unitarian church, who invoked the throne of Grace. Barnum then by direction of the national committee presented the name of Hon. George Hoadley of Ohio for temporary chairman, which was agreed to.

Wm. L. Scott and H. D. McHenry were appointed to conduct him to the chair. Hoadley's approach to the platform was greeted with cheers.

Hoadley proceeded to address the committee and convention, thanking the delegates for their compliment to him in the chair. He pledged himself to the strictest impartiality in the administration of the duties assigned to him. This was the only adequate method by which he could testify his gratitude. As chairman he should be neither the friend nor foe of any candidate, though he had his favorite, in whose behalf he might be both earnest and partisan. He took the ground that the representatives here were not delegates of congressional districts, but as representatives of indestructible states. [Subdued applause.] He proceeded with some laudation of the democratic party, for which this convention would make no new creed, which had its own vitality, and which would not depend for its future on the success of the ticket or be crushed out by its defeat. Their duties here were simply to declare the party's will. The occasion was one of great interest and importance. At St. Louis four years ago they placed in nomination two of the foremost men of the nation. [Great applause.] The subsequent repetition of the name of Samuel J. Tilden was the occasion of another outburst, delegates rising to their seats and cheering and waving fans. He asserted that they were as certainly elected as was Washington or Monroe. [Subdued applause.] He denounced the republican party as one of fraud, which cheated the people out of their choice, thus proving their infidelity to republican principles. But if the democratic party should again be successful, no cunning device, no dishonest arbitration should rob them of the fruits of their victory. [Applause.] Although the democrats failed to inaugurate their candidate their cause was not wholly lost. They defeated the attempt to steal the state government of Florida, and no longer remained of their per[illegible] gars in the south except $1,000,000 of state debts accumulated by them as a burden upon the people, and the fact that Louisiana has only one rightful senator in congress. [Applause.]

The following were nominated and accepted as the remaining officers: Hon. F. O. Prince, of Massachusetts, temporary secretary; assistant secretaries, George W. Guthrie of Pennsylvania, Chas. Kinley of Tennessee, C. S. Dodd of Ohio, D. M. Hall of Minnesota, Major A. Orendorff of Illinois, William N. Gill of New Jersey and A. C. Parkinson of Wisconsin. Reading clerks—Nat S. Brown, jr., reading clerk of the house of representatives; Mark A. Harding of Georgia; G. O. Walker of Iowa; Thomas S. Pettit of the house of representatives; Nicholas M. Bell of Missouri; James E. Morrison of New York and H. L. Bryan of Delaware; sergeant at arms, Isaac L. Miller of Ohio. Official stenographer, Edwin B. Dickinson of New York.

C. Beebe of New York offered a resolution adopting the rules of the last national convention for the government of this until otherwise ordered. Adopted.

Martin of Delaware offered a resolution that the roll of states be called for committees of permanent organization on credentials and on resolutions.

Weld of New York moved a call of the roll for presentation of credentials.

Martin objected. The best way was to send credentials directly to the committee on credentials.

Martin's motion was adopted and roll called accordingly and committees named as follows:

Permanent organization—Alabama, William R. Clarke; Arkansas, D. R. Davidson; California, Thos. L. Thompson; Colorado, John F. Humphreys; Connecticut, O. B. King; Delaware, E. L. Martin; Florida, F. U. Lanier; Georgia, John S. Stewart; Illinois, Charles Denham; Indiana, James E. McDonald; Kansas, Geo. C. Rogers; Kentucky, Wm. Lindsay; Louisiana, G. Meurenie; Maine, Simon S. Brown; Maryland, Wilmot Johnson; Massachusetts, John P. Sweeney; Michigan, B. [illegible]; Minnesota, J. L. Pierce; Mississippi, E. H. Taylor; Missouri, G. Campbell; Nebraska, G. Sterling [illegible]; Nevada, Geo. Story; New Hampshire, Irving W. Drew; New Jersey, Rufus Blodgett; New York, John Fox; North Carolina, John S. Henderson; Ohio, W. E. Haynes; Oregon, F. P. Hogan; Pennsylvania, Jas. B. Riley; Rhode Island, J. J. Dansey; South Carolina, J. W. Dawson; Tennessee, W. H. Carroll; Texas, Thomas M. Jack; Vermont, D. W. Reddington; Virginia, Wm. Ferry; West Virginia, J. F. Harlow; Wisconsin, Earl P. Fink.

When New York was called John Kelly rose back of the delegates and asked to be heard. [Great confusion, cheers and hisses and cries of "Put him out!"]

The chair refused to recognize Kelly and said that roll call must proceed.

John R. Hoskins also attempted to be heard, but was cried down, the chair refusing to hear him, and the roll call proceeded.

Avery of Massachusetts moved that when the convention adjourns it be to 10 to-morrow morning.

Martin of Delaware moved an amendment to make the hour of reconvening 6 o'clock to-night. (Cries of "No, no," "Yes, yes.")

Martin subsequently withdrew his amendment and Avery's motion was adopted.

Hill of Ohio, moved the following:

Resolved, That in recognition of the great services rendered by the democratic press in all state and national campaigns the secretary of this convention is hereby instructed to give press tickets to all persons who are bona fide editors of democratic newspapers who make personal application for the same.

Hill said that he was informed by Secretary Prince that the national committee was ready to issue such press tickets, but wanted a resolution adopted.

A motion to lay on the table was made and lost, as was also one to refer the resolution to the national democratic committee for its action. After some further remarks the resolution was rejected.

Patterson of Kentucky presented an application on behalf of delegates from the territories asking recognition in the convention, which was referred without discussion to the committee on permanent organization.

David A. Wells of Connecticut offered a resolution referring to the committee on resolutions without debate all resolutions regarding the platform adopted.

The convention, on motion of Preston of Kentucky, at five minutes after 2 adjourned until 10 to-morrow morning.

Solid Strokes for Tilden

As regards to Tilden's letter of withdrawal and that at the proper time the name of Tilden will be again presented, there is a feeling that this must prove successful, and that in this there is the strong work of an able general. Circulars are being liberally distributed to-night in the interest of Mr. Tilden, setting forth that Tammany Hall threatens to assassinate Tilden and calling on the democratic party to stand by its victorious leader and deny Tammany dictation. The circular quotes from editorials in the New York Sun and Tilden's letter in which allusions are made to his service in breaking up the canal ring, etc. The Ohio delegation is holding an important meeting to-night with doors and windows closed lest the sharp ears of reporters catch a suspicion what the discussion is about.

The resolutions were advocated by Messrs. Neal, Hoadley, Thomas, Neumer, Lewis and Page, [illegible] Armstrong. Thurman Meeting at Melodeon Hall

The Columbus Thurman club [illegible] formed a nucleus of dissatisfied ones who had a call for a meeting to-night. An immense crowd was in attendance and most ardent and even fiery speeches were made [illegible] Judge Olds of Circleville [illegible] delegates at the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the candidacy of [illegible] Ohio other than Allen G. Thurman [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] this and denounced as being untrue to the express will of the democracy in their state convention assembled.

The meeting adjourned to meet at Melodeon Hall to-morrow evening, and [illegible] to the [illegible] Ohio delegation be present.

Action on the Chinese Question

CINCINNATI, June [illegible].—The meeting of the committee on resolutions to-night was private, but a member gave your correspondent points of this interest to the Pacific coast. A resolution embodying the feeling of the coast most urgent on the Chinese question was submitted by the California members of the committee and was strongly seconded by Myers of Oregon and Miller of Nebraska. The latter even went so far as to express a wish that his party might declare in favor of excluding all foreigners from our shores except those of the same race as that which now holds this country. There were several [illegible] [illegible] which there was a disposition shown to treat that subject at length, but it is evident that it was given as to what action would be taken by the sub-committee on the Chinese question. The sub-committee as originally constituted did not include the Pacific coast members, but this being discovered the Louisiana [illegible] moved to increase the number so as to take in that section of the nation, and this was done.

Record of Wednesday's Proceedings

CINCINNATI, June 23.—The convention was called to order at 10:40, when all the delegates appeared to be on hand. Prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Charles Taylor of the Scott Street Methodist Episcopal church.

On motion the reading of the minutes of yesterday was dispensed with.

Stroutenberg of Indiana moved a resolution that surviving soldiers of the Mexican war, and widows and orphans, should be held by congress on the same footing as soldiers of 1812. Referred to the platform committee.

The chairman announced that the first business in order was the report of the committee on credentials and asked if it was ready to report.

At 10:04 Judge Hoadley announced that the chairman of the credentials committee was not in the house and called on the committee on permanent organization.

Martin of Delaware, chairman of said committee, reported. The following is the report: J. W. Stevenson of Kentucky, president; Vice Presidents—Frederick Cook of New York, J. C. Hagerman of Nevada; Secretaries—Frank Rice of New York, F. F. Help of Nevada.

When the report had been read, Young of Georgia as a question of privilege demanded to be permitted to present the report of the committee on credentials.

The chair said that the report on permanent organization was before the house.

DeFries of Louisiana moved to postpone further proceedings on the report on permanent organization until the convention had received and acted on the committee on credentials report adopted.

Young of Georgia, as chairman, presented a report of the committee on credentials. They reported that there were two delegations from Massachusetts and that they admitted both delegations by an agreement between the two, the united delegation to cast the vote for the state. They also reported in favor of seating delegations from the 19th district of Pennsylvania. In the case of New York the committee had carefully weighed the whole evidence and with a singular unanimity had voted to allow the sitting members to retain their seats. [Great applause.] There were no other contestants anywhere and the committee reported the full list of delegates entitled to seats.

Carroll then read the minority report as follows: After hearing the contesting delegations from the state of New York, we find that the state is divided into two factions, each having all the materials of a perfect party organization and each assuming to represent regularly a large part of the democratic party of that state; that each of said party divisions has held a state convention under a regular call and has duly elected delegates to represent the state of New York to this convention; that the attitude of the factions is precisely analogous to that of the democratic party of that state in 1856; that to unite the party at that time the national convention divided the delegation, allowing each to cast half the votes to which the state was entitled in the convention; that such action united the party in the state of New York and eventuated in the election of a democratic president. We believe that a similar course at this time will result in a kindred success, and we therefore recommend the adoption of the following:

Resolved, That the Faulkner branch of the democratic delegates from the state of New York be allowed to cast 60 votes in this convention; that the Shakespeare hall democracy be allowed to cast 20 votes in such convention; and that each of said divisions shall determine its method of counting such votes.

But deprive the rank and file of their leaders and like soldiers in the field, there was danger that they would be demoralized and run away from them. But if the convention would observe the democratic precedent and give the contestants here an opportunity to participate in its proceedings, he could assure them that the democracy would carry the state of New York. [Applause.] He proceeded to urge that the sitting delegates here were the representatives of machine politics against which public sentiment was protesting in the democratic as well as the republican party. Unless some compromise of this question should be made here it would be impossible to prevent the running of two democratic electoral tickets in New York, and this would tend to defeat. He and his friends could not control this result by as they might, unless this convention should give them the 20 votes recommended by the minority report. Give them that and they would draw out and make an effective and magnificent vote of New York, which would secure a victory next autumn.

Amasa J. Parker, announced by the chairman as a sterling old democrat, followed for the contestants. The contestants represented democrats from all of the rural districts who demanded to be heard. He came in the spirit of harmony with a great desire that the wisdom and party wisdom and patriotism of the convention should unite the party and redeem the national government. He and his associates from the rural districts would support whatever ticket should be named here. [Applause.] He voted for Gen. Robinson. [Applause.] The contestants represent them much more than the 40,000 Tammany vote in New York city or the 70,000 votes cast for Kelly for governor. If the convention desired them to join them in the work of redeeming the country with any hope of success he implored them to give the contestants a chance so to do.

Hubbard of Texas sustained the minority report. He was not here sustaining any faction in the party, but only a great state which the census would show had 2,000,000 people. He and his delegation came here prepared to vote for Samuel J. Tilden [great applause] or any other of the names to be presented here whom they should choose as their standard bearer. He rejoiced that the south was solid for the democratic party [applause], but he presented himself as the advocate of compromise working to success. He did not question the regularity of the New York sitting members. They may be so regular that they could back and [laughter] but they might by such action hinder their Blucher in New York. [Applause.] They must not ignore the necessities of the situation in New Jersey and elsewhere. [Applause.] They must be wise and no technicalities, merely if they stop to [illegible] Mere regularity in the [illegible] was not the question, but what is wise and best calculated to advance the democratic party and its principles. They wanted votes and must avail themselves of the means calculated to obtain them. The issue is one broader than New York—the destiny of this country, the reform, the liberties of the states and all the citizens. All these are involved in this small issue now before this body. If the New Yorkers here could not unite among themselves, the [illegible] upon the convention to put up the bans and join them in wedlock and swear them to the union for the sake of the common cause. Let the democratic party set its foot on the rock of discord wherever they may be. Massachusetts had settled its own grievances by a compromise. In New York it could not be [illegible], let us do it for them. [Cheers.] If we allow an element of discord to be thrown in our own laps here, if you are all owned to be kicked by the mule who [illegible] you will need by and by [illegible] thrown away our birthright. We can look for success only by the exercise of broad and catholic spirit in treating such a question as this.

The speaker's manner was very much impassioned throughout and made apparently a deep impression. In concluding he said: "I see all over the heaven may never rise again on a successful democratic party." At the conclusion Hubbard was warmly congratulated by many delegates on the platform.

John R. Fellows of New York spoke for the majority [illegible] [illegible] New York is great enough [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] the [illegible] right [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] was [illegible]

Louisiana [illegible] to [illegible] the rules of the house [illegible] hour [illegible] debate before the previous question was ordered.

The chair replied that the convention had adopted the rules of the last convention, which only [illegible] debate [illegible]

[illegible] the order of the previous question [illegible] the main question was ordered to be put [illegible] [illegible] the stage. He proposed to give forty minutes to any man who would [illegible] suggest to Mr. Kelly [illegible] [illegible]

The chair stated that he understood it to be the wish of the contestants to be represented by Kelly, and asked that he be accorded that privilege. (Hisses and cries of "Yes, yes.") Finally the chair announced that he heard no objection and invited Kelly to the platform. Kelly not being in the hall the sergeant-at-arms was instructed to escort anybody to the platform whom the New York contestants should indicate.

In response Jno. W. Miller came forward and was greeted with applause. He hoped that the right of free speech would not be interrupted for a moment by any man whose veins flowed a drop of democratic blood. [Cheers.] The contestants came here with the same earnest desire as animated the delegates in this hall. [Applause.] They came with no firebrand, but to present at their branch with a view to victorious success. A reference to the name of Kelly was greeted with applause and a storm of hisses renewed when the speaker declared that he had no superior in integrity and devotion to democratic principles and party. He proceeded to argue the importance of giving the Tammany men representation in this body as a means of securing unity and success. Only 25 of the contestants are from New York and the remainder of them represented over 31,000 democrats scattered all over the state and number at least one-third of the democratic voters in said state. Speaking for the contestants from the rural districts, he said that they intended to support whoever should be made the candidate of this convention. They were all anxious only for such proceedings here as should lead best to promote and insure a grand triumph. [Applause.]

THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 24, 1880.

WORK FOR THE LEGISLATORS.

The sessions of the Oregon legislature are practically limited to 40 days, and the new member who goes into either house with the expectation of carrying any important measure through must be prepared with all his facts and arguments before hand. After the session opens the member's time should be pretty well all devoted to the business which is before the house in which he sits and he has no time to go outside to look after facts and figures to support any measure, he may desire to present. The election being over, it is the duty of those who have been chosen by the people to begin the work they have agreed to do, or rather to prepare themselves to do that which is expected of them by their constituents. To a few of the measures upon which the members of the next Oregon legislature will be required to pass, especial attention is called at this time.

One of the most important of these, not only to the commerce of Portland, but also to the welfare of the entire state, is the amendment of the laws governing the pilotage and towage of vessels on the Columbia and Willamete rivers. The present laws were passed several years ago, when the entire commerce of the state for a whole year was less than it is now in two months of the twelve, and these laws are no more adapted to the regulation of the business now, than the first charter framed for our city, would answer all the requirements of the municipality to-day. The facilities for piloting and towing all vessels that enter the mouth of the Columbia ought to be largely increased, and the charges reduced to a minimum. Every producer in the state is compelled to bear a portion of the burden and there is no reason or precedent in the genius of government from which the inference of a right to tax all for the benefit of one or a few can be drawn. Several attempts have been made heretofore to correct some of the evils of the present system, but through the influence of interested parties and error on part of those who had the matter in charge, all efforts to secure a better condition of things have failed. The commerce of the state has now grown to such an extent that a new system is imperatively demanded, and the legislature has the power if it will but use it properly to do a great deal toward the enhancement of the prosperity of Oregon, by providing a pilotage and towage system adequate to the necessities of our increased and still rapidly growing commercial relations. Every constituency in the Willamette valley and Eastern Oregon is directly interested in this matter. The members from these sections would do well to give the subject careful attention and study and avail themselves of all attainable information in regard to it. The present law was passed in 1860, when the commerce which passed in and out of the Columbia was not more than one-tenth as great as now.

Other subjects of general and local interest will come before the legislature and demand the attention of the members, whose duty to the state is a serious one and one upon the faithful discharge of which ought to depend all future public confidence in those to whom as lawmakers the liberties and property of the people are entrusted. Selfish schemes and jobs will also be attempted unless the session is unlike all preceding sessions. The state is becoming wealthy, and its business, as well as the business of the more populous counties, is becoming of greater importance ever year, and in the same proportion the number of men who want to get control of affairs that they may carry out their own selfish and dishonest purposes, is increasing. With reference to the session of 1878, serious charges of trickery and corrupt influences, embracing downright bribery, have been quite generally made, and we regret to say, in some instances, have not been successfuly contradicted. In the coming session the republicans have the opportunity to make a record that will fix the political complexion of the state beyond all the power of the democracy to change it for years to come, not by trickishness and gerrymandering processes, but by honest opposition to all assaults on the true interests of the people, and the cordial support of all measures looking toward a remedy for existing evils or defects in existing laws. Let the republicans quit their seats at the end of the session with clean hands and leave a record for economy and pure legislation and Oregon is assured to the party for years.

THE CINCINNATI CONVENTION.

The Cincinnati convention took one ballot yesterday evening, but there is hardly a "pointer" in the result from which the shrewdest observer could form any conclusion as to what the next one, or the final vote will be. There are two men, Hancock and Bayard, who are in the lead on this first ballot, however, both of whom are quite eligible as probable candidates, that is, there are no generally known reasons why either of the two may not be the final choice of two-thirds of the convention, providing always, that Seymour and Tilden are out of the way. Hancock's availability is probably as great as that of any other candidate which the party could name, inasmuch as his public career has been that of a soldier only, and in that he has shown no more greatness than a dozen other men in the country. Upon the great political questions which are before the country Gen. Hancock's public utterances have not been many or very decided. Should the fight finally narrow down between him and Senator Bayard it will become very interesting, inasmuch as it would be between a man who fought and fought bravely against a great majority of the party and one who stood by that party and supported its efforts to destroy the government. But all speculations as to candidates may be upset by "missionary work" already done among the delegates, and the balloting this morning may reveal a formidable opponent for both Hancock and Bayard.

Dana of the New York Sun is the author of most of the slanders against Gen. Garfield, which have filled democratic newspapers for the past two weeks. Garfield was chief of staff of the army of the Cumberland under Gen. Rosecrans, between whom and himself a warm friendship existed. This, says the Philadelphia Times, accounts for Mr. Dana's strong antipathy to Garfield, as of all men whom the present editor of the Sun felt aversion for and sought to undermine Gen. Rosecrans was the most conspicuous. Mr. Dana's position in the war department brought him into contact with the various generals in the west, among whom he was sent as a sort of roving commissioner. Rosecrans and Garfield he especially disliked.

We should like to know what possible proof the Standard has, that of the 500 or more voters of Portland who did not take any part or vote in the election last Monday, as many are republican as democratic. That paper knows there are more than 2300 voters in the city and it cannot possibly know that all who staid at home last Monday were democrats. Had a full vote been cast, Mr Hogue's majority would have probably reached as high a figure as any republican candidate received in the county election two weeks before.

An exchange remarks that "there is one great obstacle to the harmony and success of the democratic party and that is Samuel J. Tilden." It is true that Tilden does make things a little inharmonious, but there is an obstacle in the way of the success of that party which is destined to be more difficult to overcome than Kelly's recalcitrancy or Tilden's mortgage on the party, and that is James A. Garfield.

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING.

In France, England, Germany, and in the Eastern States, armies of White people of both sexes are employed in designing, coloring, measuring, dressing, cutting, sewing, etc., etc., and in the States of California and Oregon most all of this kind of labor is performed by Chinamen; but I make it my business to keep my store clear from this China made trash. Workingmen of this city and all over Oregon, to YOU I make it known, that there is not a single dollar's worth of Goods in my Store that have ever been handled by a Chinaman; and I wish it publicly understood, without FEAR or FAVOR, that I shall at all times stock my Store with only such Goods as are made by WHITE labor, and I ask your patronage.

The steamer Elder will sail from San Francisco for Portland Friday morning

The political mountain at Cincinnati has labored but not brought forth yet

A great number of seats have been taken for the grand festival to come off Saturday evening

How many kids said he and she said What is that to you"
It is my business and she screamed
Come here a minute Dan"
And a burly person came and put
A head on the census man

BELLIGERENT CELESTIALS

Last Thursday John Jack the supervisor of road district No 4 Washington county placed a warrant in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Hale of Washington county to collect the delinquent road tax from a gang of Chinamen employed by Mr Moses Dillaboy in clearing some land near Hillsboro The Chinamen refused to pay the tax and when urged by Hale the Chinese boss made for him with an axe Hale drew his revolver and the Chinaman beat a hasty retreat Hale then proceeded to Dillaboy and served an attachment on him Dillaboy paid the amount claimed deducting it from the wages of the Chinamen

When the Chinamen learned of the fact they were very angry and the Chinese boss intimated to Dillaboy that there would be trouble unless the Celestials were paid in full The following day the Chinamen would complete their job and the settlement would have to be made Fearing that there might be trouble Dillaboy notified five or six of his neighbors of his apprehensions and asked them to be present the next day

Friday morning eight of the gang presented themselves in front of Dillaboy s house They were armed with knives and axes, and acted as if they intended to fight They advanced toward the house in a threatening manner, but were met in the yard by Dillaboy and some five or six of his neighbors, all of whom were armed with guns On seeing the weapons the Celestials found that they had evidently "waked up the wrong passenger" and retreated in good order

A warrant was issued and the gang arrested and taken before Riley Cave, justice of the peace. He fined each Chinaman $10 and on the payment they were discharged

THE EXPECTED FLOOD.

The very warm weather for the last two days, which has extended as far east as Lewiston, has reawakened the fears for a flood which were slightly allayed by the news that Snake river and consequently the Columbia had fallen The river here had been at a stand all day yesterday and will probably fall three or four inches by this evening. The effect of the hot sun on the snow in the mountains is now anxiously looked for

The D & C railroad company have placed several loads of rock and iron on the pontoons and docks on both sides of the river in anticipation of the flood

The Astoria steamer while on the way to this city yesterday, met a small dwelling house floating down the Columbia near Mount Coffin. Who the house belonged to, or where it came from remains a matter of conjecture

The fine strawberry beds of Mr La Due, on the Lower Columbia are submerged The freshet will occasion no small damage to gardens in all low places along the river

UP THE COLUMBIA.

The following dispatches from up the Columbia indicate the condition of the weather and water, for the 24 hours preceding 6 o clock last evening

Cascades—River fell 2 inches thermometer, 6 P M 85° clear light up stream wind

Dr. LaFonzo.

The only professor of the true mode of treating disease in America still continues to treat the sick at his rooms at the St Charles Hotel, which are thronged with patients most of the time The doctor will not attempt to treat over sixty each day, but will extend his visit to the 23 of July that all may have a chance to avail themselves of his valuable treatment People will please remember that Dr. La Fonzo has no time to entertain gossipers as he always has business enough without calling on that class of people whom most doctors desire to fill their rooms Those who are not willing and able to pay the doctor for his work will please forget to call Those persons who wish skillful treatment will surely find it to their advantage to place themselves under the Dr s professional care Remember his only office is at the St Charles Hotel room No 7

CLASS SONG

Helen F Spalding

Once more the hour for singing
Once more from day and toil
Once more together bringing
First fruits of summer s spoil

And somehow strangely stealing
Through sunset s flickering sheen
There comes a strange revealing,—
This marks the closing scene

But we are strong and kindly
The hand that made earth fair
Still leads though we walk blindly
It reacheth everywhere

The fading and the dawning
How strange the vista seems
Night peering into morning
Morn dimmed by shadowy beams

Sometimes there comes a gleaning
From wilds, like desert palm
Sometimes a hidden meaning
Fans changeful life with balm

Twere well if, lesson heeded
We bear the steadfast hear
Earth calls, and we are needed
To do heroic part.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS

To the Committee in Charge of the Summer Night's Festival to Take Place Saturday Evening

That the festival to be given at Mechanics' Pavilion Saturday evening in aid of the Ladies Relief Society will be a financial success, is already assured That the soloists chorus and orchestra are capable of producing good music is known to every one that attended the Heyman Marriner Campbell concerts and the oratorios of the Handel and Haydn Society but that their effort at the pavilion will be enjoyable to the immense audience which will be present depends in a great measure on the committee in charge of the building and seating arrangement Only under the most favorable circumstances is the pavilion adapted to concert purposes and the following suggestions if carried out will remove all objections heretofore raised against it on that score

First—Let the entrances be closed at the commencement of every number and remain closed until that number is concluded. It is not just nor polite nor reasonable for half a dozen or a dozen late comers to interrupt the enjoyment of the whole audience while they are finding seats Fifty persons who are seated have some rights which one laggard is bound to respect This plan was first adopted in the west by Theodore Thomas at the initial May festival in Cincinnati and proved so satisfactory that it has become a custom in that city

Second—Let ten ushers be provided and to each one be assigned a certain portion of the floor so that those who come early can be promptly seated and those who arrive during a number can be shown to their places with the least possible delay

Third—Let the opening overture begin at 8 o clock precisely—not at 8 10 nor 8 15 nor 8 30 The programme embraces fourteen numbers some of them long With encores which are almost certain to follow several soloists it will not occupy less than two and a half hours—possibly three A majority of the audience will like after the season of music promenades and refreshments but will object to remaining until Sunday morning

CHINA AND JAPAN.

Threatened War.

HONG KONG May 25.—Spain threatens active hostilities if China refuses apology to and make compensation for alleged interference with declared legitimate coolie emigration to Peru. She declares a determination to occupy ports in Formosa with troops from Manila and to blockade the Chinese coast. The Pekin government insists that the attempted exportation of coolies was contrary to the treaty and in violation of integrity and humanity. Public opinion declines to credit the extremes of Spanish menaces. Spain is encouraged by the moral support of Portugal and Peru. The governor of Macao has a dispute caused by Chinese refusal to acknowledge the Portugese right to that colony. Intimations are given that Portugese ships of war will presently arrive to enforce his long standing claim. A Peruvian envoy now in Hong Kong has a similar quarrel to Spain's, the Chinese government having likewise refused to allow a large number of coolies to sail for Peru on the same grounds as in the case of the proposed Cuban emigration. The governor of Hong Kong favors the Chinese position in all material points, and the Chung-Hows treaty with Russia has been published by which it is now apparent that Russia had the advantage in the negotiations. General terms are already correctly made known by informal reports. Russia was to receive five million roubles, her merchants were to enjoy special privileges in trading stations in immunity from customs duties, and in the use of convenient routes of travel. China was to receive back only a portion of her former territory.

The memorial of censure denouncing Chung and his treaty has also been published and it is exceedingly bitter and pugnacious. Nothing has been done since last advices concerning Marquise Tsing's proceedings at St. Petersburg or the fate of Chung. There is still hope that the latter's life will be spared and an opportunity given for a partial restoration to rank and power.

News of the coming of the American commission excites no interest or remark among the Chinese.

Reports of further propositions for United States civil service retrenchment are received with divided amusement and annoyance by Americans in China. Diplomatic and consular duties are already neglected to the point of shabbiness and if the present scanty support is diminished promise to be virtually abandoned.

YOKOHAMA, Japan June 5.—An elaborate financial report has been issued by Okuma Shigenobe late chief of the treasury department stating the actual revenue and expenditure from the beginning of the present government, in 1868. It is a dry statistical document, but important as proving that, notwithstanding fiscal irregularities under the previous tycoon regime, a system of economy was introduced by the mikado's ministry so that the disbursements never exceed the income for a single year. The report gives great satisfaction to the friends of Japan, and confounds the foreign detractors who predicted discouraging disclosures.

Russian Invasion.

Reports are published in Japanese newspapers that a Russian ship of war landed a detachment on the east coast of Corea, which forced its way into the walled town of K ngo and compelled the governor to accord an interview to the commander of the vessel. Confirmation of the above is awaited.

The second Japanese settlement in Corea is a town named Gensan ready for opening with favorable prospects of trade in local commodities only.

The U. S. ship Ticonderoga started on a cruise in Japanese-Chinese waters. The precise errand is concealed, but it is supposed that a second Corean visit is contemplated. Much vexation is caused among Americans, official and private, by the proffer of a British naval force to support Shufeldt in the event of hostilities with Corea. The proposal was declined courteously, notwithstanding this obvious selfish and disingenuous purpose. England is now the only western country whose products are sold through Japanese agencies in Corea. Her eagerness is great for extension of intercourse, but reluctant to lead any demonstration on her own account. By entering under cover of the American flag her wishes would be accomplished without injury to her future commercial prospects. In point of fact the U. S. Asiatic naval force, though feeble in comparison to the European or Japanese array, is more than sufficient for any possible Corean contingency. High diplomatic authority declares that Shufeldt will take no aggressive step unless under exceptions and wholly unexpected circumstances.

The Plague.

There are signs of cholera in various southern Japanese ports, but no apprehension of a general epedemic this year.

The Simonoseki Indemnity.

The Simonoseki indemnity question presents some singular features here. Certain well known claimants upon the Japanese treasury, for alleged indebtedness totally unconnected with the Simonoseki affair take the position that unless their individual demands are satisfied that bill for restitution shall not pass the congress. They assert that through their agents in America the passage of the previous Simonoseki bills have been permanently prevented, and names of senators and representatives on whom they rely are freely given. They propose that if these private claims were adjusted all opposition would be withdrawn, and the bill pushed through without delay. The amount of money involved is about one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. American officials here are understood to place credence in these representations but do not advise the Japanese government to yield to them. The Japanese cabinet takes it quietly, offering no opinion, but having no appearance of intending to make an effort, thus or otherwise, to secure restitution.

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEAD [illegible]

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side, the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER

DR. C. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them A FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. MCLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.
